Micronesian Journal
of the Humanities & Social Sciences
vol. 5 2006
EDITORIAL BOARD

Editors:
Dirk H.R. Spennemann (Charles Sturt University, Australia)
Samuel McPhetres (College of the Northern Mariana Islands, CNMI)

Book Review Editor (interim)
Dirk H.R. Spennemann (Charles Sturt University, Australia)

Associate Editors:
Dirk Ballendorf (Micronesian Area Research Center, Guam)
Debra Cabrera (College of the Northern Mariana Islands, CNMI)
Francis X. Hezel (Micronesian Seminar, FSM)
David W. Look (US National Park Service, Oakland)
Faustina K. Refuher (National Museum of Belau, Belau)
Donald Rubinstein (Micronesian Area Research Center, Guam)
Scott Russell (Humanities Council of the Northern Mariana Islands, CNMI)
James M. Vincent (College of the Northern Mariana Islands, CNMI)

Front cover:
Top: Gadao’s Cave, Inarajan, Guam. Bottom: Seisbo Maru off Ollot, Maloelap Atoll, Marshall Islands

Published by HeritageFutures™ International, PO Box 3440, Albury NSW, Australia
CONTENTS

Heritage Management in Micronesia at the beginning of the 21st millenium
by Dirk HR Spennemann 1

Archeological Resources

Fina'okus' Antigu: Prehistoric Soil Mounds in the Interior of Rota
by Lon Bulgrin 31

Conversations with I Man-Aniti: Interpretation of Discoveries of the Rock Art in the Northern Mariana Islands
by Genevieve Cabrera and Herman Tudela 42

Talagi Pictograph Cave, Guam
by Vic April 53

Skulls as Curios, Crania as Science: Some Notes on the Collection of skeletal material during the German Colonial Period
by Dirk HR Spennemann 70

The Archaeological Manifestation of Contemporary Marshallese Burial Practices
by Dirk HR Spennemann 79

Historic Preservation on the United States Army Base on Kwajalein Atoll
By Leslie Mead 100

World War II Heritage

Physical reminders of the British–Japanese Armament Trade in Micronesia
By Dirk HR Spennemann 113

A British six-inch gun at Barcinas Bay, Tinian, CNMI
By Dirk HR Spennemann 130

A CRM approach in investigating the submerged World War II sites in Chunuk Lagoon
By William Jeffery 137

TIGHAR and the TBD in Jaluit
By Thomas King 156

Submerged Cultural and Historic Resources of Maloelap Atoll, Marshall Islands
By Matthew B. Holly 162
Impacts of recreational scuba diving on shipwrecks in Australia and the Pacific
By Joanne Edney 201

Managing unexploded ammunition at and near cultural heritage sites
By Dirk HR Spennemann 234

Examples of adaptive re-use of World War II artefacts in Micronesia
By Dirk HR Spennemann 268

Micronesian World War II Songs and Chants: Serving a Variety of Functions
By Tammy Duchesne 285

Canoes and Voyaging

Carolinian voyaging in the new millennium
By Eric Metzgar 293

By Joseph H. Genz & Ben R. Finney 306

Restoring Traditional Seafaring and Navigation in Guam
By Lawrence J. Cunningham, Ward Kranz & Manny Sikau 314

Resource Documentation

The Joachim deBrum Photograph Digitization Project
By Eric Lindborg and Cris Lindborg 319

Marshall Islands Traditional Music Recording Project
By Scott Stege 331

GuamPedia, A Work of Legitimacy
By Nick Goetzfridt 340

The Imagery of Postcards sold in Micronesia during the German Colonial Period
By Dirk HR Spennemann 345

Cultural Tourism

The Role of Cultural Attractions in the Motivations and Awareness Spectrum of Japanese Tourists in the CNMI
By Elizabeth Sayers & Dirk HR Spennemann 375

The Attitudes of Japanese Tourists towards Cultural heritage attractions in the CNMI
By Elizabeth Sayers & Dirk HR Spennemann 388

Cultural heritage attractions in the CNMI: Visitor Satisfaction of Japanese Tourists
By Elizabeth Sayers & Dirk HR Spennemann 400

Provision of information on Cultural Attractions to Japanese Tourists in the CNMI
By Elizabeth Sayers & Dirk HR Spennemann 413

Heritage and the Natural Environment

Catching the Drift: Impacts of Oceanic Drift Material in the Marshall Islands
By Nancy Vander Velde and Brian Vander Velde 431
Sea-Rafted Pumice at Mili Atoll, Marshall Islands: 3000 Km From Source
By Frank R. Thomas & Michael D Rosenberg 450

Weed Infestation And Its Impact on The Preservation of a Japanese-Era Concrete Building In Micronesia
By Dirk H.R. Spennemann & David Lorence 458

Impact of Tropical vegetation On World War II-Era cultural resources in the Marshall islands
By Dirk H. R. Spennemann & David W. Look 472

Issues of Heritage Policy

Combining Curiosity with Political skill. The antiquarian interests of Georg Fritz
By Dirk H. R. Spennemann 495

How Micronesia Changed The U.S. Historic Preservation Program And The Importance of Keeping It From Changing Back
By Thomas King 505

Resource, Research, and Protection: a view from Pohnpei
By Rufino Mauricio 517

Resources, Research, and Protection: One approach
By Francis X. Hezel 521

Virtual Historic Preservation
By Dirk A. Ballendorf 527

Role of historiography
By Anne Hattori 530

Documenting oral history: an alternate approach
By Rlene Santos Steffy 535

Perceptions of Micronesians on the effectiveness of the Historic Preservation Programs
By John G. O’Neill & Dirk H.R. Spennemann 540

Heritage and Communities
By Rita Olsudong 547

The Role of Agencies and Training

War in the Pacific NHP in Micronesia: The Past and the Potential
By Tammy Dachesne 556

Marshallese Cultural Center on Kwajalein
By Eric Lindborg and Cris Lindborg 560

The University of Guam’s Master of Arts in Micronesian Studies in review:
Fall 2001-Summer 2006
By Kelly Marsh 564

Archaeological Training Programs in Micronesian Island Nations
By William Ayres 568

By John G. O’Neill & Dirk H.R. Spennemann 580
Heritage Futures

Restoration of Traditional Knowledge to Enhance Self-Sufficiency
By Felicia Beardsley 594

Waan Aelon Kein Project
By Dennis Alessio 605

Digital Futures: cultural management and the role of the Micronesian expatriate communities in Hawaii and the mainland USA
By Dirk HR Spennemann 613

From Soul to Somnolence: The Palau Community Association of Guam, 1948 To 1997
By Francesca Remengesau & Dirk A. Ballendorf 629

Submission Guidelines 640